MISCELLANEOUS READING.

COMMUNICATED. Having had the pleasure of reading some spark ling and original thoughts of Tarpley Starr, in your columns, I take the liberty of sending you some exquisite lines. They are, as you may see, from the same terse and brilliant pen.

Very respectfully, C. H. K Jefferson County, Va.

TO THE MOTHER OF THE SEVEN ANGELS. MRS. M. D. C. Mother-by affliction taught! Seest thou treasures of thine heart, One by one come, and depart? Does thy ear still list to greet, The patter of those little feet, Tinkling music's nimble beat, Ah! thy darlings are not gone, For a play-time on the lown, To come in at the set of sun?

Long since sunk that sun to rest. Long since sunk thine anxious breast, --- Thy sweet birds had quit their nest! 'Cross the threshold, through the halls, Round the hearth-stone—on the walls Everywhere, Death's shadow falls! Wearily the sun shines down, Wearily the world turns round, All hope's leaves are sear and brown. At half-mast her flag hangs o'er, While from life's remotest shore, Booms the echo "never-more!" But that echo is the wail Of thy poor heart on the gale, Moaning through its tattered sail. Oh! if thou couldst catch the strain, As 'tis echoed back again. From the far eternal main, Softened into "evermore!" Cross life's billows it steals o'er, Like a curfew from God's shore! Curfew! at whose high behest, Put out the fires within thy breast, Bid grief "good-night" and go to rest. Or like some Vesper's holy air, Calling thee to fold each care, And to kneel, all hushed in prayer. Look above, for lo! there be, Seren more stars, there, out for thee, Glimmering on thy troubled sea. Seven colors, as we know, Tie God's signet in a bow, On the cloud's portentous brow. Thy "seven" rays for thee have wove, One bright rainbow up above, As God's flag of peace and love. Thy seven notes, in heaven's choir, Shall thy nature's tone inspire, Raising it an octave higher! Thy "seven candlesticks" are bright, Showing thee by holier light, How to read life's page aright. What shall make thy steps untoward, While a sevenfold sacred cord, Holds thee to the throne of God? And when earth is passing by, Seven times easier shalt thou die, Seven times welcome to the sky!

The customers of a certain cooper in a town ut West, caused him a vast deal of vexation by their saving habits and persistence in getting all their old tubs and casks repaired, and buying but little new work. "I stood it, however," said he, "until one day old Sam Crabtree brought in an old "bung-hole." to which he said he wanted a new barrel made. Then, I quitted the business in disgust."

WE WOULD inform all in want of BROOMS, BUCKETS, and CEDAR WARE, that we are receiving as large a stock of such goods as is to be found in Broom and Wooden Ware Stores generally. Having had much experience in the ches, we can offer greater inducements than any part of our stock-
